To Whom It May Concern,

It is with great enthusiasm that I write this letter to recommend Mohamed Aoughazala, who has been an integral part of our Immersive Technologies team in the CTO Office of T-Systems International for the past year and a half as a working student.

Throughout his time with us, Mohamed has consistently demonstrated a strong work ethic, technical proficiency as a developer specializing in XR projects, and a professional attitude that sets him apart. His primary responsibilities included the development of several PoCs, where he showcased expertise in both Unreal Engine and Unity, with a focus on AI-Agents. Additionally, Mohamed gained hands-on experience working with various XR Head-Mounted Displays, leveraging their capabilities to build innovative and engaging solutions. His adaptability and technical knowledge were evident in his ability to switch between tools, platforms, and devices, delivering high-quality results.

What stands out most about Mohamed is his unwavering commitment to excellence, even in high-pressure situations. He approached late-evening sprints with focus and determination, always ensuring that deliverables were met on time without compromising quality. His reliability and willingness to go the extra mile have left a lasting impression on the team.

Moreover, Mohamed's professionalism, respectfulness, and positive attitude have been invaluable. He communicates clearly and thoughtfully, always mindful of fostering an environment of understanding and support. His proactive approach to proposing process improvements and his evident passion for his work reflect his dedication to professional growth and the success of the team.

In summary, Mohamed has proven himself to be a skilled and dependable professional developer, whose contributions have significantly impacted our projects and team dynamics. I have no doubt that he will excel in any future role he pursues, and I wholeheartedly recommend him.
